PET AVERSION OF THE SAILOR

Stormy Petrel is Regarded with Disfavor by Even the Most Stout-Hearted Seamen.

There are few persons who have crossed the ocean that have not observed the stormy petrel skimming along the surface of the water. They sit past the vessel like swallows, taking their scanty portion of food from the waves.

Habited in black and making their appearance generally in larger numbers just previous to, or during, a storm, they have long been regarded by the superstitious not only as foreboding messengers, but as agents in some way responsible for bad weather.

Nobody can tell where they come from or where they breed. Sailors assert they hatch the egg under the wing and rear the young on pieces of flotsam. That mysterious origin has given rise to an opinion prevalent among mariners that they are in some way connected with the supernatural agencies of the air.

They are variously known as stormy petrels, witch birds, the devil's birds and Mother Carey's chickens. Their sudden appearance often makes the stoutest hearted seaman flinch.

The Chinese have a horror of being pictured. They have the idea that the possession of the photograph of any individual gives the possessor some form of mystic power over that person.

BRING MEMORY OF THE PAST

Humanity Inspired by Songs of Birds and Noises of the Cricket and the Katydid.

Country Life in America says a carefully trained ear and mind are indispensable to enable one to detect and to discriminate readily from the general insect medley any particular species of musician.

As with birds and their songs, much of the charm and pleasure to be gotten from insect music depends on the emotional coloring associated with it. We are enraptured with the notes of the pewee in spring, or the earliest piping of the frogs, not because these sounds in themselves possess any intrinsic sweetness, but because they recall endearing memories of many happy, hopeful springtimes. They are always the harbingers of another verdant season. Their plaintive notes add to our minds an emotional warmth and sunshine. They awaken for us an inner, subjective springtime.

In a similar way the crickets and katydids gladden and inspire us with their music in proportion as their notes have become associated in our minds with the emotional coloring of past memories.

U. S. SENATOR W. A. MASSEY

United States Senator W. A. Massey, in keeping with his unflinching progressive and patriotic policy voted to abolish the commerce court in the United States Senate August 19, 1912.

The commerce court is the tribunal that has prevented the interstate commerce commission's ruling abrogating the back haul charge of the Southern Pacific becoming effective. By the back haul charge the Southern Pacific has mulcted thousands of dollars from the merchants of Reno and the whole state of Nevada. Aside from this feature, however, Senator Massey is opposed to the commerce court because he believes it serves no good purpose.

NEWLANDS NOT COMING: TALLMAN WILL BE HERE

It will be a disappointment to many, irrespective of party affiliation, to learn that United States Senator Francis G. Newlands will not be here to speak at the Democratic rally scheduled for Thompson's hall next Monday night; he having been called to Reno unexpectedly. However, Hon. Clay Tallman, nominee for congressman, will be here.

PIOCHE PACIFIC PUTS ON DAILY TRAIN SERVICE

That was pleasant information imparted today by officials of the Pioche Pacific railroad to the fact that daily train service had again inaugurated to Jack R. Bristol. This change of schedule has brought about by the demands upon the road by the Day-Bristol company, which has announced it will ship a minimum of tons of high grade ore to the smelter.

The Day-Bristol company now has 75 men on its pay roll at the engaged in ore extraction and development. In addition to the firm of Roeder & Lund has teamsters employed in ore service, who are handling at least head of stock.

The outlook for the future Day-Bristol mines has never quite so flattering.
